August 1-31, 2026

Prepared September 9, 2026

The Serenity Club of Clearwater's listing in Google Search and Google Maps

What people did from the listing

Google also recorded 0 bookings through the profile. These figures count actions, not different people, completed phone conversations, or meeting attendance.

What this means for the club

The listing helps people take a next step. More than half of the recorded actions were clicks to the website. Directions made up 30%, and call-button taps made up 17%.

Directions were the strongest change from last August. Requests were up 144.8% compared with August 2025, while website clicks and call taps declined. This shows a change in recorded activity, not confirmed visits to the clubhouse.

Keep practical details easy to use. Check the address, phone number, hours, and website link regularly, and make sure someone viewing the listing on a phone can find the information needed to attend a meeting.

The full August period is available for this report. It differs from the 30-day period used in the separate website report.

Plain-language definitions, missing information, and sources

Current public listing

4.7 out of 5 stars

36 Google reviews

These are the public rating and total review count seen on September 9, 2026. They cover the listing's review history; they are not August-only results.

Profile views

Views of the club's Google listing are different from views of its website. Google limits repeated counting, but someone may be counted again on another day or device. The monthly total is not a count of different people.

Actions, calls, and directions

Actions can overlap for the same person. Call taps record use of the call button, not answered calls. Direction requests show interest in finding the club, not arrival. Website clicks record use of the listing's website link. Bookings cover Google's booking feature, not attendance.

August search phrases are not yet available

Google displayed "Your searches will be available soon" for August. No search-phrase totals or rankings are included. Results shown for a longer period have not been substituted for August.

Keep this separate from website activity

This report covers August 1-31. The separate website report covers 30 days through September 9. A Google website-link click and a later website visit can describe the same person, so the two reports should not be added together as a total audience.

What the figures cannot tell us

This report does not establish membership growth, meeting attendance, donations, purchases, or whether visitors found the help they needed. Google's figures may include both ordinary search activity and advertising activity; this report does not separate them.
