

Website activity report

Prepared for the board and member-owners of Serenity Club of Clearwater

August 10 - September 9, 2026

serenityclubofclearwater.org

The last 30 days, including part of today. Prepared September 9, 2026.

What this tells us

The meeting schedule is a major reason to use the site. The home page and meeting schedule made up 83% of all page views. The schedule itself was viewed 219 times.

Most visitors used a phone. About 78% of recorded visitors used mobile phones. Meeting times, the address, and contact information should be easy to find on a small screen.

Visitor numbers were steady, with fewer pages viewed. The statistics service reports 1% more visitors and 10% fewer page views than the preceding 30 days. This alone does not tell us whether the website served visitors better or worse.

Practical priorities for the club

- Keep essential information current: meeting times, changes, directions, and contact details.
- Check the website on a phone: confirm that a newcomer can quickly find a meeting and the club's address.
- Keep Google information consistent with the website: Google was the largest identifiable outside source of traffic.

A useful limit: Website views do not tell us whether someone attended a meeting, became a member, made a donation, or found all the information they needed.

Total: 684 page views. The share column shows each page's portion of all views. For example, the meeting schedule accounted for 32.0%, or about one in three.

How to read these counts

Visitors may view several pages, so do not add the visitor counts. Views of membership, shop, or giving pages do not show completed sign-ups, purchases, or donations.

The two contact addresses are listed separately as recorded. A recorded visit does not confirm that the visitor found the intended information.

How visitors found the site

Identifiable outside links and visitor countries

Google led the identifiable sources. The listed sources account for 191 page views. Another 493 views had no source listed in this table. They may include direct visits, bookmarks, or links that did not pass along their source; the report cannot separate these.

What the figures mean

Reading guide, coverage, and sources

Recorded visitors

The service counts visitors without keeping a lasting identity for each person. Someone returning on a different day may be counted again. The figure of 316 should not be read as 316 different people, members, or households.

Page views

One-page visits

The 49% figure means that about half of visits included only one page. The statistics service calls this the bounce rate. Someone might find a meeting time or address on one page and leave satisfied. This measure alone does not tell us whether a visit was useful.

Changes from the previous period

The service shows visitor numbers up 1% and page views down 10% compared with the preceding 30 days. These are changes reported by the service. Full details for that earlier period were not available, so they have not been recreated.

Why this is a 30-day report

A report for the full month of August was the first choice. It was unavailable because only the latest 31 days of detailed history could be accessed. This report therefore uses the selected Last 30 Days view through September 9, including the available part of that day.

What is covered

This report covers the public website serenityclubofclearwater.org. It does not measure meeting attendance, membership totals, donations, sales, social media activity, or email activity. The figures describe recorded website activity, not all of the club's work.

Source and preparation

The figures were captured on September 9, 2026 from Vercel, the service that supplies the website's visitor statistics. All listed page, country, device, and browsing-app page-view totals were checked against the 684 total. Daily figures were read from the displayed charts.
